

Indigenous Patient Navigator

How Our Navigators Help

Indigenous
Health Program

Accompany community members to healthcare appointments and hospital stays, offering holistic support and guidance throughout the medical journey.

Assist community members in accessing essential hospital resources and connecting with external community support services.

Provide traditional medicines and cultural items to support healing and well-being.

Arrange cultural and spiritual practices, such as Smudging, Drumming, Pipe Ceremonies, and facilitate meetings with Elders, Healers, or Knowledge Keepers.

Support patients comprehensively, addressing physical comfort, emotional well-being, mental health, and spiritual needs during hospital visits.
