Coping with Cancer: Financial Programs for Patients with Cancer and their Caregivers

Many people living with cancer and their caregivers may not be able to work for some amount of time.

There are several programs that may be able to give you financial help. Details about each of these programs are listed in this pamphlet.

To help guide you, see the back of this pamphlet for a chart showing an overview of programs.

In this brochure you will find information on the following programs:

- Workplace and Private Insurance Benefits........................................page 2
- Government Social Insurance Programs.............................................page 4
- Government Social Assistance Programs..........................................page 13
- Financial Programs for Patients and Caregivers Over Age 65 ............page 17
- Government Tax Credits and Benefits................................................page 21
- Who can I call if I have questions?......................................................page 22
Workplace and Private Insurance Benefits

If you worked and do have benefits through your workplace or through a private insurance company, you may be eligible for the following benefits.

Short Term Disability (STD) Benefits
STD is a benefit you receive from your employer’s benefit plan that pays you a portion of your income for a short amount of time while you are sick.

Long Term Disability (LTD) Benefits
LTD is a benefit that you receive after you have finished your STD and/or EI Sickness Benefit and will pay you a percentage of your regular income.

I am a patient with cancer. Am I eligible?
If you are a patient with cancer experiencing:

- physical problems (such as fatigue, weakness, lower immune system), emotional problems (such as changes in mood, appetite or sleep) or cognitive symptoms (such as problems with concentration, attention, memory)
- AND these symptoms are affecting your ability to do your job, you are eligible to apply

Talk with your doctor about how your medical condition might affect your ability to work.
Workplace and Private Insurance Benefits

I am a caregiver. Am I eligible?

If you are a caregiver experiencing:

- physical problems (such as fatigue), emotional problems (such as changes in mood, appetite or sleep) or cognitive symptoms (such as problems with concentration, attention, memory)

- AND these symptoms are affecting your ability to do your job, you are eligible to apply

Talk with your family doctor about the type of stress you are experiencing as a caregiver. Your doctor may recommend you be off work for a period of time.

How do STD and LTD benefits work?

Speak to your workplace/human resources office or insurance company to confirm the amount you will be paid, how long the benefit will be paid and when STD and LTD payments will start. Every plan is different. You usually need to take STD and/or Employment Insurance – Sickness Benefits first and then apply for LTD.

How do I apply for STD or LTD benefits?

You will need to complete an employee claim form and your doctor must complete a medical form. There are different forms for STD and LTD.

Contact your workplace or human resources office or insurance company for more information.
If you have worked and paid enough into the Government Social Insurance Benefits Programs (Employment Insurance and/or Canada Pension Plan), you may be eligible for the following benefits.

Government Social Assistance Programs

Types of Programs

Ontario Works (OW)
OW provides temporary/emergency financial assistance for people who are in financial need. This means they have low income and low assets. For more information about OW see this link:

Ontario Disability Support Program (ODSP)
ODSP provides financial assistance to people who have both a proven disability and are in financial need (low income and low assets). For more information about ODSP see this link:

OW and ODSP provide other benefits such as prescription medication coverage, basic dental and vision care. For more information call Service Ontario at 1 888 789 4199. Press 1 and then 0 to speak to a representative.

Ontario Works (OW)
Ontario Works is usually short term with the goal of helping people return to work or while waiting for help from other government programs such as Employment Insurance (EI), Canada Pension Plan (CPP) or the Ontario Disability Support Program (ODSP). If you qualify for ODSP because you have a disability that is expected to last more than 1 year, ask your OW caseworker to help you to apply.

The amount you receive from Ontario Works will depend on the size of your family and the amount of rent or housing expenses you have. For example, here are the 2018 rates:

- A single person receives about $733/month
- A couple receives about $1,136/month
- A couple with one child receives about $1,191/month

Government Social Assistance Programs

Am I eligible for OW?
To be eligible, Ontario Works reviews the following:

• family size, income, employment status, shelter costs
• assets – liquid assets below a specific amount ($10,000 for a single person, $15,000 for a couple + $500 for each dependent child)
• status in Canada, proof of identity and date of birth
• Social Insurance Number and Health Card Number
• AND you must be employable or have a temporary restriction from working (such as an illness) or be disabled and applying for the Ontario Disability Support Program.

How do I apply for OW?
There are 3 ways you can apply for Ontario Works:

2. In person at your local Ontario Works office. Use the office finder link to get the address of your local office.
3. By phone. Use the office finder link to get the phone number of your local office.
   • Ontario Social Assistance Office Finder link: http://www.officelocator.mcss.gov.on.ca
Ontario Disability Support Program (ODSP)

The Ontario Disability Support Program is a provincial government program that provides financial assistance and other benefits (such as prescription medication, basic dental and vision care) to people who have a disability and are in financial need.

The amount you receive from ODSP will depend on the size of your family and the amount of rent or housing expenses you have. For example, here are the 2018 rates:
