What is Integrative Behavioural Group Therapy?

Integrative Behavioural Group Therapy (IBGT) combines 3 types of therapy:

- Cognitive Behavioural Therapy (CBT)
- Acceptance and Commitment Therapy (ACT)
- Mindfulness

Research studies show that these therapies can help people who have depression, anxiety and psychosis. IBGT can also help people with insomnia and pain.

The group supports you to live in the present moment, develop balanced thinking, enhance psychological flexibility, and take effective and committed actions toward a meaningful life. These changes will be achieved through group discussion, sharing of experience, relaxation and mindfulness exercises, and experiential activities in a safe environment.

Is this therapy group right for me?

This therapy group is available to people over the age of 18 who have depression, anxiety, psychosis, insomnia or pain.

It is voluntary, confidential and covered through OHIP.

The group meets once a week. It is important that participants commit to attending at least 10 of the 12 sessions.

To join the Cantonese, Mandarin or Portuguese IBGT group, you will need to know how to speak comfortably in one of these languages.

How do I register for IBGT?

1. Call the UHN clinics listed below and ask for a referral form. The referral form can be emailed or faxed to you.
