

RESEARCH STUDY

Are you a healthy adult aged 20-35 with no history of concussion?

We are recruiting for participation in a research study examining cognitive function. This study will compare cognitive functioning between healthy, non-concussed and acutely concussed participants across eight (8) weeks.

You may be eligible if you:

- ✓ Are between 20 and 35 years old
- ✓ Have at least a college level education
- ✓ Have no history of diagnosed concussion in the last year

This study involves:

- 3 visits to Toronto Rehab Institute (550 University Ave) across a 2-month period
- Each study visit will be between 30 and 45 minutes long
- Completing cognitive tests that will examine learning and memory, attention and speed of processing

A small amount of money will be given as compensation for travel expenses to study visits.

If you or anyone you know is interested in participating please contact us for more information. Please note that communication via email is not secure, therefore please do not communicate personal sensitive information via email.
